YELLOW JACKET

DATE ADOPTED: May 2, 2009

The yellow jacket is an adult who is an off-ice official that will wear a yellow jacket during games for crowd/fan control. It is required for all tournament games or as needed for crowd control during regular games. They are also responsible for crowd control and protecting the game officials and players. This person may eject unruly spectators from the arena with the assistance of the rink attendant. If order is not restored, the on-ice game officials need to be informed. Final step would be to contact local law enforcement.

Amended 05/01/14

Iron Range Hockey Association shall have at every scheduled game including tournament games one parent or more if deemed necessary to enforce the zero tolerance policy.
